Des Tages Weihe, D. 763

(Consecration of the Day)

(Also known as Schiksalslenker, blicke nieder)

Composed Nov. 22, 1822; first published 1842

Edition with English Singing Translation by

NOTES FROM THE EDITOR:

---This new English Singing Translation has been crafted to be as close as possible to the meaning and syntax of the original German text (whose author is anonymous.)

To that end, a small number of note values have been changed to accomodate the placement and syllabic durations of the English text.

Please see and compare the original text, literal translation, and English singing translation below.

---All editorial marks are in brackets.

---All breath marks are editorial.

---The original intent is for the piece to be performed by a solo quartet. To make performance by a full chorus possible, it is suggested that the opening passage (meas. 7 - 21) be sung by a Bass solo.

---As the title suggests, this piece was intended as a hymn for a nameday or birthday.

ORIGINAL GERMAN

Schicksalslenker, blicke nieder,
Auf ein dankerfülltes Herz;
Uns belebt die Freude wieder,
Fern entflohn' ist jeder Schmerz.

Und das Leid, es ist vergessen,
Durch die Nebel strahlt der Glanz
Deiner Größe unermessen,
Wie aus hellem Sternenkranz.

Liebevoll nahmst du der Leiden
Herben Kelch von Vaters Mund; Darum ward in Fern und Weiten
Deine höchste Milde kund.

LITERAL TRANSLATION

Guide of fate, look down,
upon a grateful heart;
Joy revives us,
far away is every pain.

And suffering is forgotten,
through the mists shines the glow
of your greatness, beyond measure,
as if made of a bright wreath of stars.

Lovingly, you took away the suffering bitter cup from the father's mouth;
therefore far and wide
is known your supreme clemency.

ENGLISH SINGING TRANSLATION

Fortune's guardian, lend us your gaze,
See this ever grateful heart;
now renewed by Joys returning,
flown away are all our cares.

And our sorrow is forgotten,
thru the mist there shines the glow
of your greatness beyond measure,
like a brilliant starry crown.

Lovingly you took the bitter cup of woe
from your Father's lips;
thus it's known both far and widely that your mercy is sublime.
